

Company History

The first C-Dory, a 22' X 7'6" "Flat Bottom" was introduced in late 1979 at the Seattle sportsman show. The new boat was a tiny cousin of the Marben semi-displacement hulls being built at the time by Roy Toland Inc. doing business as Marben Marine. The immediate success of C-Dory's original 22' model led to the development of the line into what it is today. Roy Toland Inc soon formed a new corporation around the new boat line, giving it the C-Dory name. Roy Toland Inc. sold it's tooling for and interests in the Marben line to Golden Star Yachts. C-Dory Inc. acquired the the remaining assets of the Marben Company and its name. Marben Marine operates today as a Dealer for all C-Dory Inc. products as well as Honda Marine Motors within it's sales territory. Other Independent Dealers for C-Dory are located along the East & West Coasts & the Great Lakes.

Models Built

Models that are being produced today are underlined>. Please don't ask us to build models not underlined, except for the row boats we no longer have the tooling to produce them. Models marked with an * were replaced by the newer versions. Those marked with a ! simply did not sell in sufficient numbers to be worth while.
